The History of the de Havilland Aircraft Museum

by Peter Shallcross

Peter has been at the museum for four years. He started as a steward, but has progressed to providing group tours, Mosquito experiences and recently took over the role of Archivist.

“The History of the de Havilland Aircraft Museum” starts with a brief history of Salisbury Hall followed by why Geoffrey de Havilland took over the hall and why the museum was established there. There will be an overview of how the museum has developed and what has changed over the last few years to transform the museum into what it is today.

This talk will be followed by the PSFS AGM .
